President Thieu Denounces Anticommunist Critics

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam denounced Monday night anticommunist critics he said are presenting the Vietnam allies with more difficulties than the war on the battlefield.

These critics are inadequately informed, Thieu said, and contrasted them sharply with the unity displayed by the Communist camp in backing the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese.

Thieu delivered the sharp attack against critics of the allied war effort at a farewell banquet attended by President Chiang Kai-shek and other top government officials. Thieu, who arrived Friday for a visit, leaves Taipei Tuesday for home.

Chiang underscored the common anti-Communist stand of Nationalist China and South Vietnam and pledged: "I would like to assure you that the Republic of China will forever stand shoulder to shoulder for prosperity of the two countries in order to promote peace and security in the Asian and Pacific region."

Thieu's attacks against anti-war critics followed growing demands in the United States for President Nixon to consider granting concessions to the foe to achieve peace in Vietnam.

Though Thieu did not say so, it seemed apparent that one of the critics he had in mind was Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D. Mass., who has been increasingly sharp in his comments on the continuing war and last week declared Thieu "doesn't help the cause of peace by lobbying in South Korea and Taiwan (Formosa), nations where we spent billions for defense, against President Nixon's peace plan."

'A' Weapons To Be Moved Out of Okinawa

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — President Nixon has made a decision to move American nuclear weapons out of Okinawa once an over-all scheme for turning the island back to Japanese rule has been agreed on, well-placed informants disclosed Monday.

The actual timing of their removal to other sites in the Pacific area, these sources indicated, would be subject to the terms of the plan. Japan wants the weapons removed and islands returned by 1972.

Nixon's decision, reportedly taken after a National Security Council meeting in late April on Okinawa and related issues, is an important one. It is understood to reflect the judgment of the President's civilian advisers that sound, long-term relations with Japan are more important than the military's preference for retaining complete freedom of operation on Okinawa.

Informed sources said the decision has not yet been communicated to the Japanese government formally, but presumably it will be in the course of negotiations with Tokyo on the Okinawa issue this summer and fall.

The Japanese foreign minister, Kiichi Aichi, met with Nixon for 40 minutes Monday morning at the White House to present formally Japan's request that Okinawa and the rest of the Ryukyu island chain be returned to the Japanese by 1972.

Communists Urge Supporters To Abstain in French Election

PARIS (AP) — Followers of the powerful French Communist party were called upon Monday to boycott the June 15 run-off election between Georges Pompidou and Alain Pöher to succeed Charles de Gaulle in France's presidency.

This action made the election of 57-year-old former Premier Pompidou virtually sure. To have a serious chance of victory, Pöher would need the whole-hearted backing of the Communist vote in the run-off between the two top men in Sunday's first round of balloting.

Jacques Duclos, the Communist party leader, finished a

High Court Rules Against Segregation by 'Clubs'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that privately operated public accommodations cannot practice racial segregation by calling themselves clubs and admitting only whites on payment of a nominal fee.

The 7-1 decision put hundreds of recreation areas and other facilities under the ban. But it did not extend to the last of the all-white bastions: exclusive social and country clubs which are definitely private.

The court dealt with Lake Nixon Club, a privately operated,

Record 597 Die During Holiday Weekend

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A record total of 597 persons died on the nation's roads during the 78-hour observance of Memorial Day. The toll topped the previous three-day Memorial Day weekend record of 542 set in 1966.

This compared with 481 traffic deaths counted in a nonholiday weekend of identical length two weeks ago.

The National Safety Council had predicted 550 to 650 persons would be traffic victims during the holiday weekend, which was recorded from 6 p.m. local time, Thursday to midnight Sunday.

In 1968, 629 persons died in four days of Memorial Day weekend traffic. The highest death toll for any summer holiday was 732 during the four-day July 4 period in 1967.

Howard Pyle, director of the safety council, said Monday that the Memorial Day toll is a "direct relationship to the ever-widening gap between troubling factors that contribute to highway crashes and problem-solving factors that provide more safety."

He said that in the last three years approximately six million new drivers and cars added to the traffic stream and he noted that the council has asked Congress to double its authorization for funding of the 1966 Traffic Safety Acts to make $600 million available to close this gap.

The balmy temperatures that covered most of the nation at the outset of the holiday period spurred many motorists to the highways and, as usual, the death rate climbed rapidly in the final hours as millions of Americans sped home.

In addition to highway deaths, 200 persons drowned and 36 died in boating accidents last weekend.

strong third in the Sunday vote.

Following a meeting of the Central Committee, Duclos denounced both Pompidou and Pöher as "reactionaries" and said the Communist party called on all its followers to refuse to vote in the run-off.

"No improvement is possible with either of them," Duclos declared. "Either of these two candidates will mean the deterioration of social conditions and the continuation of policies which have been rejected."

While denouncing both candidates, Duclos singled out Pöher for having urged that West German "revanchists" should have access to a European nuclear strike force.

The Communist abstention thus seemed to lean slightly more heavily against Pöher than against Pompidou.

The Communist decision is certain to increase the pressure on Pöher to withdraw.

This would leave Pompidou face to face with Duclos. Pompidou would have no difficulty defeating the veteran Communist leader while Pöher's withdrawal could mark the first step toward reconciliation for the Gaullists and the middle-of-the-road groups which engineered De Gaulle's downfall in April.

Pöher defiantly declared early Monday he was determined to fight "to the bitter end," but the Communist decision and pressure from some of his own supporters may make him change his mind.

He drew only small comfort from the decision of the Socialist party—whose candidate, Gaston Defferre, polled barely 5 per cent of the vote—to throw its support behind Pöher.

Millionaire contractor Louis Ducatel, whose way-out candidacy got 1.27 per cent, was received by Pompidou and announced that he was backing the former premier.

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — An Australian aircraft carrier sliced a U.S. destroyer in two during SEATO maneuvers before dawn Tuesday and at least 76 Americans are feared lost, the Navy reported.

Seas were calm and the weather clear at the time, the Navy said.

The South China Sea maneuvers—by members of the Southeast Treaty Organization—were cancelled and the various ships taking part returned to their national command.

The bow of the destroyer USS Frank E. Evans sank, but the rest of the 2,200-ton ship was lashed to the Australian carrier, the Melbourne. The carrier recently returned to service after colliding with an Australian destroyer five years ago, with a loss of 82 lives.

Navy headquarters here said a preliminary count showed 197 survivors from the Evans' crew of 273.

No casualties were reported among the Melbourne's crew.

The Navy said the bow of the Evans sank immediately. Beyond the fact it was before dawn, there was no indication of how the collision occurred.

Survivors taken aboard the Melbourne, the Navy said, included Cmdr. A. S. McLemore, the destroyer skipper, and his executive officer.

The collision occurred at 4:12 a.m. Tuesday, Philippine time, 650 miles southwest of Manila.

Several ships involved in the SEATO sea maneuver "Sea Spirit," were dispatched to the accident scene, including the U.S. aircraft carrier Kearsarge.

The 25,000-ton Melbourne, considered the pride of Australia's small but up-to-date navy, had only recently returned to service following a multi-million dollar refitting.

It carries American-built "Sky Hawk" fighters and twin-engine Grumman tracker anti-submarine aircraft.

On Feb. 10, 1964, the Melbourne plowed through another destroyer.

In that collision, also in the darkness, the Australian destroyer Voyager was broken in two.

The bow of the Voyager, like the Evans, also sank. Its aft section remained afloat for only three hours.

Code of Ethics for Judges Expected Next Tuesday

OXFORD, Pa. (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren, a center of controversy during most of his 16 years on the U.S. Supreme Court, says a code of ethics for all federal judges should be forthcoming next Tuesday.

The tall, snowy haired Warren, who expects to retire June 23, called for the Judicial Conference of the United States to convene June 10 in Washington to establish guidelines that presumably would prevent a recurrence of the Abe Fortas affair that rocked the nation's highest court to its foundations.

Fortas, whose nomination by President Johnson to succeed Warren as chief justice was blocked by Congress, resigned under fire last month following disclosure he had accepted and then returned 11 months later a $20,000 fee from the Wolfson Family Foundation.

Louis Wolfson is serving a year's prison sentence for violation of federal securities laws—specifically the sale of unregistered stock.

Fortas accepted the fee while

Wolfson was under government investigation and returned it after the financier's indictment.

The 78-year-old Warren, who was here Sunday to receive an honorary degree and deliver the commencement address at Lincoln University, maintained his public silence on the Fortas affair.

A shirt-sleeved Warren, relaxing with a reporter on the front porch of the home of Lincoln president Marvin Wachman, said the judicial conference "should act in order to determine some standards not yet articulated in the regulation of our federal courts."

Asked how soon the judiciary code of ethics would be adopted and made public, Warren replied:

"Why, at once."

"I see no reason why it can't be accomplished during the day-long conference."

The code also was expected to deal with regulations for financial disclosures by federal judges.

Nixon Asks 2-Year Extension Of Antipoverty Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon altered his position Monday and asked a two-year rather than a one-year extension of the dispute-ridden federal antipoverty program.

He recommended also $2 billion in funds to finance the program in fiscal 1970, the same sum recommended by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

At the same time on Capitol Hill, the agency's new director, former Rep. Donald Rumsfeld of Illinois, outlined for the first time some broad operational changes for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Nixon said in a statement the two-year extension would be a "better framework within which the necessary improvements in the antipoverty program can be made."

On Feb. 19 he had called for a one-year extension.

Nixon asked no basic changes in the legislation at this time but there are indications Congress is in a mood to make some in the fairly near future.

Rumsfeld, the newly confirmed OEO director, gave priority to these administrative changes at a hearing before the House Education and Labor Committee.

—Vigorous program-evaluation for concrete indicators of progress.

—An enlarged role for state governments particularly in rural-area projects.

—A revamped community-action program better coordinated with Model Cities efforts.

—A new willingness to transfer successful OEO programs to other agencies.

Rumsfeld said the Nixon administration wants a straight extension of the antipoverty legislation expiring June 30. But he said the administration might ask for changes after studies are completed.

The request for a two-year extension, Rumsfeld said, "is not a commitment simply to continue present programs. It is a commitment to find out what works and what does not, to review the performance of these programs, and to utilize new knowledge."

He stressed that the President wants OEO to be an "innovating agency, an incubator for new programs."

DEBORAH McWILLIAMS

Deborah J. McWilliams, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McWilliams of RD 2, Tidioute, has been named Valedictorian of the 1969 graduating class at West Forest High School.

Debbie majored in commercial subjects and was a member of the Girls' Chorus, Mixed Chorus, Girls' Ensemble, Forest Area Band and the Yearbook staff. She appeared in the class plays and was recently inducted into the National Honor Society.

She will work this summer at the New Process Company in Warren and will enter Robert Morris College this fall to major in accounting.

Three Mishaps Reported

Cynthia G. Kinnear, 23, Box 14, West Hickory, was treated at Warren General Hospital Monday following a one-car crash on Rt. 62 about eight miles north of Tidioute. She was traveling south on the highway state police said, when the car skidded on wet pavement, ran off the road and rolled over. Damage was set at $1,800.

A rear end collision on Rt. 6 near Tiona sent another driver to Warren General Hospital for treatment. Jeffrey L. Scalise, 20, 216 Horton ave., Sheffield, complained of back pain after his car, which was stopped for a vehicle ahead, was struck from behind by Irvin S. Bailey, 23, 23 High st., Clarendon, state police said.

Three cars collided Monday in Warren Borough at the intersection of Liberty st. and Pennsylvania ave. Allen G. Culbertson, 24, 18 Locust st., eastbound on Pennsylvania ave., started through the intersection after the light changed, turned green and struck a car turning left onto Pennsylvania ave., operated by Karen Susan Trubick, 18, 839 Pleasant dr. Jamestown Man Dies in Mishap PANAMA, N.Y. — Darley B. Parson, 62, 760 E. Second st., Jamestown, died Sunday when the car in which he was a passenger crashed along Rt. 74 east of here.

The driver of the car was identified as Donald W. Sholl, 23, 182 Steele st., Jamestown. The accident occurred as the car ran off the road struck a culvert and flipped end over end, police said.

Sholl and his wife, Donna, 19, were admitted to WCA Hospital, Jamestown. His condition was listed as fair, hers as critical. Sholl was charged with speeding.

Parson's death marked the 21st highway fatality in Chautauque County in 1969.

Code

was seen by some as an effort to forestall Congressional action in the judicial area.

In response to other questions, submitted in writing in advance, Warren said he was opposed to some recent suggestions that Supreme Court justices be reconfirmed periodically by Congress.

"That would mean the end of the court's independence. The court would be dependent on the good will of Congress."

He said he supported establishment of a mandatory retirement age for officials in all branches of government because "the strength of our institutions depends on the frequent infusion of new blood."

The most controversial of Warren's decisions were handed down in the public school desegregation cases, although in these he spoke for a unanimous court.

But he pinpointed the high court's "one-man, one-vote" ruling in 1962 as "perhaps the most single important decision made during my 16 years on the court."

State House Okays Taxing Of Leased State Property

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Pennsylvania House gave its approval Monday to legislation that would authorize local municipalities and school districts to levy real estate taxes on state property leased to private, profit-making commercial enterprises.

The roll call votes on the two-bill package were 156-32 and 166-22. The measures, bearing the sponsorship of both Republican and Democratic legislators, were sent to the Senate which is scheduled to convene for the week on Tuesday.

Meeting in solo session, the House also approved a proposed conservation amendment to the state constitution and passed legislation that would alter the method of filling vacancies on all local school boards except in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

The House witnessed the swearing in of a new member, Democrat John P. Murtha Jr. of Cambria County, who was elected in special balloting May 20 to fill a vacancy created by the death of Rep. Edward W. McNally.

Rep. Rudolph Dinninni, R. Dauphin, led the floor fight in behalf of the tax authorization bills which he sponsored along with five other lawmakers. Attempts to recommit and table the legislation failed by wide margins.

Dinninni said the proposal would "benefit a great many municipalities" at no additional cost to the state which, he explained, would pass along to the lessees the burden of the local property tax.

Rep. Russell Kowalyszyn, D. Northampton, opposed the legislation on grounds that it would adversely affect restaurants and service stations along the Pennsylvania Turnpike, which he said were doing a "public service."

Another opponent, Rep. Russell J. LaMarca, D. Berks, suggested that the bills were poorly drawn and that they would affect the snack bar outside the House chamber and the cafeteria in the basement of the Capitol.

Dinninni's principal intent for sponsoring the legislation was to deal with the state-owned property which once comprised Olmsted Air Force Base at near by Middletown. The state received the tract from the federal government and began leasing portions to private firms.

The vote on the conservation amendment was unanimous. It would add a section to the constitution's Declaration of Rights, guaranteeing every citizen the right to clean air, pure water and "the natural, scenic, historic and esthetic qualities of our environment."

The proposed amendment was sent to the Senate, but even if approved, it would require legislative passage again in 1971 or 1972 before it could be placed on the ballot for ratification by the electorate.

The school boards legislation would require that persons named to fill vacancies be of the same political party as the member who last held the seat. It also would require that the seat be filled on a permanent basis at the next municipal election.

Under present law, vacancies on 2nd, 3rd and 4th class school boards are filled by the boards themselves, by a majority vote, with the appointee serving out the remainder of the expired term regardless of whether any elections occur in the interim.

The House accepted the proposed changes by roll call votes of 147-43 133-55. The legislation went to the Senate.

Murtha, who operates a car wash in Johnstown, became the 108th Democrat in the House. There are 96 Republicans and one vacancy caused by the death last month of Rep. Harold B. Rudisill, D. York.

Other bills passed by the House would:

— Regulate the operation of snowmobiles and require a $4 annual registration fee, sent to the Senate on a vote of 156-31.

— Authorize licensed private clubs composed of volunteer firemen to serve persons who are active members of any volunteer fire company in the state, to the Senate, 144-45.

— Provide for 13 paid holidays for firemen in 3rd class cities, to the Senate, 169-19.

Damages Paid to Restore Y'ville Memorial Millstone

YOUNGVILLE — A "happy ending" to the Mead Memorial Millstone story was reported to Youngville Borough Council at its meeting Monday night by Borough Attorney William Bevinov.

He told them that Frederick A. Lucks, Jackson Run rd., has paid $275 in damages sought by the borough for restoration of the memorial. It was shattered when Lucks' auto hit it June 26, 1968, as it was about to be moved to a new location to make way for the Rt. 6 bypass. The restored millstone will be set up where its base is now located, between the bypass and the end of West Main st., Youngville. A curbed island has been constructed in the intersection.

Curbing has also been provided in front of two properties at the end of West Main st. to help correct drainage problems caused by bypass construction.

A letter from Sen. Richard Frame concerning a request for modifications to exit signs at the east end of the bypass suggested that addition of the word "Youngville" to the word "Irvine" would meet the needs of the borough.

Councilman Hugh Logan, one of the East Main st. merchants who requested council to seek changes to help prevent loss of business for them, commented that the senator's proposal was "half a loaf."

A major portion of the meeting was concerned with the presentation of a ten point list of requests from the Youngville Recreation Commission and council's consideration of them. Kenneth Johnson, chairman of the commission, and Dennis Engstrom, a member and director of the Brokenstraw

Richard Koepfel, park superintendent Chapman Dam State Park, says the park will not be open for swimming, on a day-to-day basis, because of a small film of oil on the water.

"We feel this will not be conducive to good swimming," Koepfel explains. He suggests that before attempting to swim in the lake at Chapman Dam, it is best to telephone the superintendent's office: 723-5030. As soon as it is possible to permit swimming again, it will be announced.

The oil pollution at Chapman Dam came about when the National Transit pipeline broke, and discharged a considerable amount of oil in the Jones Run, which flows into the branch of The Tionesta Creek that flows into Chapman Dam, Wednesday afternoon, May 29. The oil was discovered at Chapman Dam shortly after the lake had been stocked with fish by the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

Koepfel immediately notified the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, on whose lands the pipeline break occurred. Within an hour the crew from the National Transit sub-station at Kane was on the scene to mend the leak and attempt to correct the oil pollution of the stream and the Chapman Dam lake. A skimmer was placed on the stream ahead of the oil in an attempt to prevent it from reaching the dam. However, the oil has polluted the lake, and until it is clear, it is not suitable for swimming.

Sportsmen and conservationists are concerned over the frequency of pipeline breaks over recent months, and the fact that oil pollution can destroy fishing for years, because it kills insect life in the stream which supports the marine life, including fishes and crustaceans.

Ships

The 3,500-ton Voyager was Australia's biggest destroyer at the time. The accident happened when it cut across the Melbourne's bow when the bigger vessel reversed its course.

Later, the Melbourne's skipper was cleared of any blame for the collision. The skipper of the Voyager, Capt. Duncan M. Stevens, was killed.

More than 40 warships from six SEATO nations had participated in the current maneuvers, which began in Manila Bay on May 26 and was scheduled to end next week in the Gulf of Thailand.

The exercise was jointly sponsored by the United States and Australia.

The Evans, named after the late Brig. Gen. Frank E. Evans of the U. S. Marine Corps, was launched in 1944.

Poverty

But, Rumsfeld said: "Innovation will be meaningless unless it is coupled with penetrating evaluation."

Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., who favors a five-year extension, said Congress would not be able to pass new anti-poverty legislation for several months.

He said Republicans on the committee have agreed to ask a continuing resolution to keep OEO alive for about three months until the new bill can be passed.

No Injuries

There were no injuries but damages totaled $400 in the one-car accident at 6:30 a.m. Monday on Rt. 6, about one mile west of Warren.

The car driven by Harold E. Williams, Box 6, Garland, overturned on the north berm after going out of control when he swerved to miss an auto he thought was entering the highway from the south berm. Williams was traveling east on Rt. 6.

Junk Car Phase II

Ready to Move

Warren County's junk car removal program will get into high gear when Phase II of the three-phase operation begins officially at 9 a.m. June 5, according to information received from Dale Freeborough, zoning officer.

Phase II means that a truck from Gay-Mark Enterprises will make as many trips per week throughout the county as is required to pick up every junk car in the county.

Arrangements must be made before hand, however, by calling 723-7550, Ext. 50, giving the location of the junk cars to be removed from the premises. Each junk car removed must be accompanied by a junk car certificate or a certificate of title. The zoning officer will assist in getting certificates of title or junk car certificates for those not already having them.

The first pick-up is scheduled for June 5, and it is anticipated that the demand will be heavy during the beginning phases of this operation. The operation will continue, if necessary on a five-day-a-week basis, until every junk car has been removed.

The final phase of the junk car removal program will see the junk cars hauled from their collection points to the processing plant at Luria Brothers in Cleveland.

The Danish Lodges of Warren will hold their annual Memorial Service Wednesday, June 4, at 8 p.m. in the Warren Grange Hall. All members of the three lodges here are asked to attend. A social hour will follow the program and refreshments will be served.

U.S. Paratroopers Meet Only Scattered Resistance

SAIGON (AP) — Paratroopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division met only scattered resistance Monday in their continuing sweep through the A Shau Valley near the Laotian border. A military spokesman said the paratroopers were encountering small pockets of enemy soldiers as they pressed their three-week-old drive eastward across the floor of the valley, long an enemy stronghold and staging area.

The ease with which the drive proceeded was in marked contrast to last month's bitter 10-day battle for Ap Bia mountain on the western rim of the valley, a fight that touched off heated debate in the U.S. Senate whether the campaign was worth the loss in American lives.

More than 600 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed defending the 3,000-foot peak, finally captured May 20 after a series of bloody assaults in which 50 paratroopers were killed and 300 wounded.

Elsewhere, fighting broke out 11 miles northwest of Saigon after an estimated company of Viet Cong was spotted by U.S. 82nd Airborne Division paratroopers and South Vietnamese militiamen.

The enemy troops were on the run when spotted, a military spokesman said, and 15 were killed and three captured before contact was lost at 6 p.m. The fight cost one American dead and 12 wounded. There were no reported South Vietnamese casualties.

The battle occurred in the same general area where eight paratroopers were killed and three wounded Friday when a U.S. ambush patrol was hit by a Viet Cong force.

The U.S. Command in Saigon reported only scattered ground action across the country.

The sweep of the A Shau was part of Operation Apache Snow, an allied push begun May 10 when more than 5,000 U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were flown into landing zones by helicopters just west of the valley.

The aim of the operation is to locate enemy supply caches and soldiers in the 30-mile-long valley, a favorite staging area for attacks against Hue, 30 miles to the northeast and U.S. installations at Da Nang 55 miles to the southwest. It also seeks to block enemy escape routes into sanctuaries in Laos.

As of Monday, a military spokesman said, 871 North Vietnamese soldiers had been killed in the operation. He refused to say what the U.S. casualties are to date, a common practice until the announced end of an operation.

The most impressive—and possibly most ominous—Soviet gains have been made in catching up with the United States in long-range missiles, challenging U.S. naval and merchant marine supremacy, and building some new war planes better than U.S. fighters.

Also, defense officials who conferred last week with NATO leaders came home deeply impressed with what they heard about demonstrated Soviet ability to mobilize—an ability demonstrated in the invasion of Czechoslovakia and its aftermath.

Pentagon officials, both civilian and military, adhere publicly to the Nixon administration theme that the United States and Russia are entering a period of "negotiation rather than confrontation."

But many of these key officials indicate private misgivings over Moscow goals. Although Russia renewed its call for nuclear arms control talks early in the Nixon administration, little has been heard from the Kremlin on this in recent months.

Those attempting to puzzle out Moscow intentions suggest the Soviet leaders may be trying to:

— Pull even with the United States in overall military strength before sitting down to serious arms control talks.

— Gain a heavy enough nuclear missile punch to be able to knock out the U.S. retaliatory missile and bomber arsenal in a surprise first strike.

— Win dominating influence in areas of the world from which Britain is withdrawing and where the United States may cut its military commitments after the Vietnam war.

— Build more security against Communist China and against Germany and other Western powers to compensate for cracks appearing in the protective belt of one-time subservient satellite nations in Central Europe.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has declared it his policy to consider Russia's capabilities rather than attempting to gear U.S. military readiness to estimates of Soviet intentions.

He warned against "major and irretrievable miscalculation if our judgment on intentions proves faulty."

The defense secretary added: "Based . . . upon the best information available to me as secretary of defense, I must conclude that the Soviet Union has the capability of achieving by the mid-1970s a superiority over the presently authorized and programmed forces of the United States in all areas—offensive strategic forces, defensive strategic forces, and conventional forces."

The Nixon administration's concern about Soviet missile buildup has been repeatedly stated during the debate over the U.S. Safeguard antimissile program.

In the past two years, officials say, Russia has increased its force of ICBMs from 250 to at least a parity with this country's 1,054.

Bodies of Two Coeds Found in Wooded Area

EGG HARBOR, N. J. (AP)—The bodies of two 19-year-old coeds, missing after a shore vacation, were found in a wooded area near the Garden State Parkway Monday.

State Police said they had been murdered.

Susan Davis of Camp Hill, Pa., and Elizabeth Perry of Excelsior, Minn., were unaccounted for since last Friday when they left Ocean City for an autotrip to Philadelphia, Pa., to join their families.

Atlantic County Prosecutor Robert McAllister said the bodies were partially decomposed, with no clothes on one and the other was fully clothed. He said a jacket nearby bore the name of Susan Davis.

McAllister said the bodies were found by a Garden State Parkway maintenance man who had joined state police in a search of the area.

Police said the bodies were found a short way from where the car in which the girls had been riding was found abandoned.

The girls graduated recently from Monticello Junior College in Godfrey, Ill., and went to the shore for a vacation.

Their fathers, Wesley S. Davis and Ray Perry, had reported them missing and suggested "there is foul play somewhere." They asked police to aid in a hunt.

Davis said the girls left their shore rooming house after dawn Friday "to beat traffic" on the 70-mile ride to Philadelphia. They were to join the Davis family for a drive to Durham, N.C., for the graduation of Miss Davis' brother from Duke University.

McAllister said there were "indentations" on the stomachs of both girls. He said police were searching the vicinity for weapons.

He said the body of one girl was found face down and the other face up.

Authorities said an autopsy would be performed Tuesday.

McAllister said the bodies were found about 200 yards off the Parkway, a heavily traveled toll road, Elwood Faute Jr., a maintenance man, discovered the bodies, McAllister said.

The last person known to have seen the girls alive was Walter Syden, operator of the rooming house where the girls had been staying.

Syden told newsmen he had chatted briefly with them before they left Friday and had warned them to drive carefully because of the Memorial Day weekend traffic. He said they appeared cheerful.

When the girls failed to arrive at Camp Hill Friday night, as scheduled, their parents reported them missing.

The parents also rented a helicopter over the weekend and flew over the route they thought the pair would take but found nothing.

Both girls were described as tall, blonde and attractive.

NEW METHOD AT NEW PROCESS

Using a new method of "pouring" concrete, workmen are quickly laying the concrete roof of the underground storage area being constructed at the New Process Company location in Warren. This snorkle-type unloading device is capable of keeping up with the fastest concrete finishing crew. The material is unloaded directly from the in-transit mixer. Company officials said that the picture will return to normal this fall when the area over the underground storage has been paved for the parking lot and loading docks, as before the excavation. (Photo by Mansfield)

NATO Representative Against European Security Conference

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Marlan Cleveland, leaving after four years as U.S. representative on the North Atlantic Council, came out Monday against holding a big European security conference, including the United States and the Soviet Union, in the near future.

The idea has been widely advocated by European leaders.

"It would just be a big circus," he said in an interview.

"We don't say that some, where down the corridors of time there won't be a European security conference. Indeed, there will be quite a number of them on one piece of the problem or another. The No. 1 principle is to break it up into manageable chunks."

He said the time to hold a conference is after a problem has been settled—not before.

Cleveland, 51, is quitting to become president of the University of Hawaii. He said he was glad to be returning to education.

"That's where the action is," he said.

Though not an active politician, he has long been associated with Democratic administrations. His successor, Robert F. Ellsworth, was political director of President Nixon's election campaign.

Cleveland suggested some of the "manageable chunks" into which the security problem could be broken, the first being the issue of divided Berlin.

"There's no reason why we should have an annual or a semiannual crisis on the autobahn," he said. "It's a thing the Soviets are perfectly well capable of settling with us if they want to."

Another possible chunk, he added, would be increasing the exchange of people—especially teachers and students—between East and West. He remarked that such exchanges are beginning to expand again after the halt that followed the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia.

Other parts of the German problem could be selected, also, for settlement, Cleveland added. He saw Germany's eastern boundaries as largely a question for Germans and Poles, and noted that the West German foreign minister, Willy Brandt, had recently shown readiness to talk about it.

Relations between East and West Germany, he said, are mostly a matter for Germans to settle among themselves, though with the participation of the World War II allies who still have special responsibility.

Cleveland considers all these problems ripe for new action.

He observed that in other parts of the world, progress with the Russians is being made. He said they had a good deal to do with increased hopes for peace in Vietnam, and noted that they were cooperating on the Middle East.

He predicted that talks between Washington and Moscow on limiting strategic missiles would start this summer. One of his successor's first jobs will be to consult about them with America's allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Warren Rotary Club Planning 50th Anniversary Celebration

BY FRANKLIN HOFF

William Walker and Neil Culbertson outlined advance plans for the 50th anniversary celebration of Warren Rotary Club next October at the regular Monday noon meeting at the Blue Manor.

Richard ("Rich") A. Gaillard, of Rich, Singer, Dean and Scribner, stock brokers and security service, was inducted in the short form as a new member by Dr. Carl Whipple.

William Schneck, senior active member of Clearfield Rotary Club, was introduced as the guest of his son, LeRoy Schneck.

A pennant from the Hartford, Conn., Rotary Club was presented by Michael S. Chase, who was a visitor at that club. Neil Culbertson reminded the club that W. Floyd Clinger Sr. is the only living charter member of the Warren Rotary Club. The two chairmen of the Golden Anniversary observance have been working on the project already for the past seven weeks.

Among the committees for the 50th anniversary the following chairmen were named:

Commemorative Brooklet committee, Harold S. Hampson, Wm. E. Yeager Sr., Dr. Carl Whipple and Frank Christy.

Entertainment committee, John Biekarek and Bernie Wingert.

Publicity, LeRoy Schneck and Franklin Hoff.

Since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, the Russians have maintained a fleet in the Mediterranean roughly on a numerical par with the 50-ship U.S. 6th Fleet.

The Soviets also have sent task forces into the Indian Ocean, once the province of the British and an area uncovered by U.S. fleets.

Adm. S. G. Gorshkov, Soviet Navy commander, has said "sooner or later, the United States will have to understand that it no longer has mastery of the seas."

The biggest worry plaguing the U.S. Navy is the obsolescence of its fleet. Adm. Thomas H. Moorer testified recently that nearly 60 per cent of the current 902 U.S. ships are over 20 years old. By contrast, he said, almost none of the Soviets' roughly 1,000 ships is over 20 years old.

The U.S. naval leaders for several years have been expressing concern about the growth and wider penetration by the Soviet Navy.

"In tactical aircraft, our current projections show that they can have several hundred more than the United States is programmed to have by the 1974-75 time period, and this includes our carrier-based aircraft," Laird said.

The Readers Speak

Dear Sir:

I would like to commend the officers and members of Chief Cornplanter Post 135 American Legion, Dinsmore Schwing Post 631 Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Pendleton Detachment of the Marine Corps who made and executed the plans for the parade and memorial services held on Memorial Day. It takes a lot of time, effort and co-operation to bring about a successful service such as was witnessed on Friday.

It was gratifying to see how many people lined the streets to watch the parade and show their appreciation.

Warren County can be very proud of the young people who make up the Warren Area High School Band, the Eisenhower Lancers and the Sundowners.

We are fortunate to have a citizen of Warren become a State Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Mr. Manfrey's remarks at the Memorial Day services which honored our men who have died in the services of our country paid glowing tribute to them. He said, "It is too easy to forget that the day is set aside to honor the comrades who could have been us. They sailed, they marched, they flew into battle."

Do we pay our debt to them on Memorial Day? Whether we want it or not, we are obliged to live our lives to their honor. We must give our support to the many who fight on foreign shores. We must shout, "We are Americans, we do not desert our allies."

The music furnished by the bands deserves much praise. The services held at the GAR circle were impressive and I wish to commend every person who participated and made the program so worthwhile.

Sincerely,
Emma M. Kiernan

Revolution Hits the Office

The U.S. consumer revolution has finally sifted down to the area where 34 million of us spend a full one-third of our lives—the office.

Doomed to extinction or to undergo drastic change are office concepts and hardware created for a way of life dead and gone. You know... the completely enclosed "boxes" in which the bosses isolate themselves behind monster mahogany status symbols; the inhuman row upon rigid row of steel desks with their clumsy drawers at which you sit all day; the huge file cabinets in which we hide paper until it is obsolete, irrelevant and overwhelming.

On the way—and already here in some of America's top corporations—is the "Action Office" concept in which each of us, from the board chairman down to the file clerk, has the tools with which to fix up our own "work stations" to suit ourselves and our jobs.

To illustrate... Free-standing panels which we can move to create areas completely or partially enclosed or not enclosed at all; tables of varying heights at which we can stand or sit as we work; files which will have limited capacity and be displayed so that we'll be tempted to purge paper as it becomes obsolete; small conference tables scattered throughout the work areas at which we can meet for discussions; built-in spaces for our computers and other necessary electrical equipment.

Yesterday, Herman Miller, Inc., the 64-year-old furniture makers, displayed the new office concept to a selected group of business executives in the first of a series of seminars in New York City. Speaking on "The Office and the Human Performer" were Robert Propst, sculptor, inventor and creator of the Action Office concept. Also explaining ways to meet the challenge of turmoil in the office was Joseph N. Schwartz, marketing manager of Herman Miller. The session was jammed—as have been previous seminars in Los Angeles and Grand Rapids.

Actually, the success of the concept seems assured. Companies which already have installed a German system somewhat along these lines—Burlington, Eastman Kodak, John Hancock, Companies which already have adopted the Herman Miller approach include Citizens & Southern of Atlanta, Celotex of Chicago, Hallmark Cards of Kansas City. Companies which are planning Miller installations include Montgomery Ward and IBM.

As a person who has spent a working lifetime in the open spaces of a newspaper city room, I find the concept entirely appealing. I particularly like the idea of sit-down or stand-up work stations. In Schwartz' words, "man wasn't made to spend so much time sitting down; he thinks better when he breaks out of the box" now and then. The problems of noise and distraction in open offices, Schwartz says, can be solved by having sufficient people and machinery in the area to mask the noise and by moving the panels.

The main point, Propst emphasizes repeatedly, is that everything "must be adaptable and movable." The office must be able to grow and change as the company grows and changes. It makes sense. Incidentally, Propst won't even use the word "desk." In the modern office, you, the "human performer," will work at "free-standing units" in your "work station," choosing either to "sit down" or "stand up." Like it?

Twice within the space of two years the proposal to up monthly payments for victims of miners' asthma from $75 to $100 has been forwarded by lawmakers to the gubernatorial desk. Last year the bill drew a veto, and indications are now as the ten-day grace period for His Excellency to approve or disapprove the measure wafts away, that another veto is on the agenda.

Early in his regime Mr. Shafer stated flatly and bluntly to lawmakers that he would absolutely refuse to approve spending programs for which funds had not been appropriated — as a basic part and parcel of the "hard line" (as some referred to it) "fiscal responsibility" theme he has hammered out as a keystone of his administration.

Lawmakers found he meant business when the miners' asthma compensation increase was sent to his desk last year, minus funds to pay for the uppage. His veto of the controversial bill — for lack of funds — was his answer.

Since then coal region lawmakers have hounded the subject to local constituency-pointing to their vote in favor of the measure and the Governor's veto of the bill.

It set the stage for the new bill to be introduced this session, which again has been approved by both House and Senate and now reposes before the Governor.

But once again, funds were not specifically provided to cover the cost of the increase, estimated by the administration to be around $9 million for the coming year.

And once again — a gubernatorial veto is on the agenda.

Where then does this leave His Excellency?

Obviously, Mr. Shafer is in rather poor posture with miners afflicted with the disease itself, their families and friends in the coal region areas (to say nothing of lawmakers from those areas).

On the other hand, without the gubernatorial veto of the measure, Mr. Shafer would have to abandon the "fiscal responsibility" policy he long ago enunciated — and with a deviation in this case, obviously open the floodgates to other deviations.

In its simplest terms: out would go a principle of making certain funds are available for a

COMING!

PEARSON & ANDERSON

The Off-the-Record Luncheon

WASHINGTON — President Nixon went to unprecedented lengths to explain why and how he picked Warren Burger to be his first major judicial appointment, that of Chief Justice. There was good reason for this. Because never in the past half century has such an obscure jurist been appointed to this high post. In the past, Presidents have picked ex-presidents of the United States, candidates for President, or Cabinet officers to be Chief Justice.

Among them were: William Howard Taft, former President of the United States; Charles Evans Hughes, governor of New York; Secretary of State, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and candidate for President.

Harlan Fiske Stone, Attorney General and Associate Justice; Fred Vinson, Secretary of the Treasury, chief of War Mobilization, member of Congress and Judge on the Court of Appeals.

Earl Warren, three times governor of California, Attorney General of California, and candidate for Vice President with Gov. Tom Dewey in 1948.

In contrast, Judge Burger held only an obscure position as Assistant Attorney General and as Associate Judge on the U. S. Court of Appeals.

Inside reason for the President's choice, as previously reported, was Burger's close affiliation with Nixon in the Joe McCarthy witch-hunting days, and his role in the No. 1 loyalty case under Eisenhower — that of Dr. John Peters of Yale.

Here is a quote from the Washington Merry-Go-Round column of April 9, 1955, regarding an off-the-record luncheon which Burger staged in connection with the Peters case:

"Purpose of the luncheon was to do what the American Bar Association frowns on — influencing the courts through the press."

"Assistant Attorney General Burger is scheduled to stand before the Supreme Court of the United States on April 18 to argue a famous security case. And, to sway public opinion in advance, he invited 12 newsmen to an off-the-record lunch. Upon arrival they were amazed to hear a bald attempt to use them to incite the public for the purpose of influencing the Supreme Court."

"The Supreme Court case that Burger will argue is the famous one of Professor John P. Peters, top medical officer of Yale University who was fired from his part-time, nonsensitive government job in the U.S. Public Health Service after an unnamed, undercover government witness claimed that Peters had Communist affiliations."

"The case comes up for argument in the Supreme Court in about a week and already the Justice Department has one strike against it because Solicitor General Simon Sobeloff, who is supposed to handle all Supreme Court matters, refused to sign the Justice Department's brief."

"So, to arouse public opinion in advance, Assistant Attorney General Burger proceeded to tell newsmen how a wrong decision by the Supreme Court could wreck the government's entire security program, how the Justice Department could function efficiently only if its corps of informers remained undercover, and

Difficult to Fault Shafer

HARRISBURG — It is difficult, if not next to impossible, to fault Governor Shafer on the bulldog tenacity front insofar as determination to stick by enunciated principles is concerned — a point strikingly illustrated in the current miners' asthma payments increase hassle. To say that His Excellency has been put on the political spot in the present case is somewhat of a volcanic understatement!

Twice within the space of two years the proposal to up monthly payments for victims of miners' asthma from $75 to $100 has been forwarded by lawmakers to the gubernatorial desk. ART BUCHWALD

Explaining Mendel Rivers

WASHINGTON — Several of our congressmen are in Paris this week observing the air show, which they insist is essential to their legislative duties during the forthcoming year.

Leading the group is Congressman L. Mendel Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, and Charles N. South Carolina's gift to the American people.

It must be very difficult for a Frenchman to understand Rivers' role in our system of government, and I can just imagine a scene between the congressman and a French official he is introduced to at the air show. "Monsieur Rivers, as I understand it, you are a member of zee American parliament."

"Ah happen to be chairman of the House Armed Services Committee."

"I do not understand zis House Armed Services Committee."

"Wal, it's not hard to fathom. In our armed forces we have a chain of command. The President is Commander in Chief, then there's me, then the secretary of defense and then the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

"You must be a very powerful man."

"When ah tell a general to jump, he jumps. Watch this — Hey you, General, over there — jump."

"Zut alors. He jumped. How do you come by zis power?"

"Wal, Frenchie, under our system when the armed services want anything, they have to come to me. If they want a new plane or a new submarine or even a new PX, they have to present it to mah committee. If ah don't want them to have a new plane or a new submarine, they aren't about to get it."

"Mon Dieu, if De Gaulle had zat power, he would navaire have quit."

"Ah'm not mean about it. Matter of fact, ah'm so kindly disposed toward the military that ah give them things they don't even want."

"Zay must be grateful."

"Ah don't get many complaints from them. Of course, the military's been good to me. Whenever they want to build a new base and they can't think of any place to put it, I let them put it in my district in Charleston, South Carolina."

"You are a kind man."

"Mind you, ah don't ask them to build anything there. But for some reason Charleston seems to fit all their needs."

"Your district must be well protected?"

"Ah'd say from a defense standpoint, Charleston's probably the safest place in the United States."

"What about zee rest of the members of your committee?"

"If they play along with me, ah throw them a bone every once in a while: A missile site here, a sub-chaser school there. There's enough for everybody as long as they play the game."

"And if zay don't play zee game?"

"Ah don't have much time for the enemies of the military. Just the other day there was a misunderstanding about a new C-54 Air Transport, which happened to be built down mah way. It cost a little more than Lockheed said it would, and some of the people on mah committee started making noises about holding a hearing. Wal, I gave them their hearing and from mah point of view, Lockheed came out smelling like a rose. But ah's not forgetting the names of the troublemakers."

"Monsieur Rivers, you are a great man."

"You're not a bad guy yourself. You need any military hardware ah can help you with?"

"Not for zee moment, but I'd like your card. By zee way Monsieur, what about the general?"

"Ah plumb forgot about him. OK, General, you can stop jumping now."

THE SKY is less crowded at 3 a.m. than any other time of the day, according to Federal Aviation Administration statistics. The FAA says there are only 176 airline flights airborne at that hour, as compared with 1,152 at 6 p.m.

Letter to the Editor:

In regards to the National Forest Service to the barricade that was placed at Gate "C", just prior to the Memorial Day weekend is plain ordinary meanness and not for safety sake as we sportsmen were told about the Devil's Elbow road. I have been one of the people using this Gate "C" road to launch my boat in the past weeks and in my opinion it is a very good and safe road and also one of the best natural launching areas of the reservoir. For the people who live around Warren and especially on the east side of the river this is a perfect section for a few hours of pleasure on a summer evening. Why all this fuss now about the fee charging to put a boat in the reservoir? It seems that this road was closed to benefit the Wolf Run Marina for the ridiculous fee of $1.50 and 9 cents sales tax for every launch. There was no mention of all these fees when this dam was being built. After all our taxes made all this possible and now we can't use it free even when there are natural areas like Gate "C" available. We are not asking for anything that takes more revenue to build something but when a place as good as this is taken away from us they are going to far.

It is quite obvious there are a lot of families that like to go fishing and boating when there are no extra fees to pay for from the use that Devil's Elbow and Gate "C" had. So sportsmen and sportswomen get behind this drive to open these areas up again and to remain as free access areas only. It doesn't take as much work or material to repair Devil's Elbow as our Forest officials are trying to tell us.

This reservoir was made for everyone and not just the people who have the money to pay for anything and everything.

A Disgruntled Boater

Dear Editor:

I am now a teacher in Clarion County, but I taught Plank Road School from the fall of 1935 to the spring of 1947, a total of eleven years. The experience I gained there has been instrumental in helping me to teach in a much better way.

When I first taught at Plank Road, we burned wood for fuel. Later on, we used coal. One of the school boys acted as janitor. Once the school house caught fire, but with the help of nearby neighbors, we extinguished the blaze.

School directors I remember were Mrs. Carol Westfall, Mrs. Hugh Nelson, Mrs. Maude Reynolds, Mr. Heckathorne, Mrs. John Jackson, and Henry Hollabaugh.

The bus driver was always Beecher Shaw.

The school was featured in a Tidoute newspaper during those years. It seemed that people were very proud of their school.

Pupils I remember are as follows: Kenneth Sullivan, Betty King, Joyce King, Sophie Giotz, Norma Zaner, Sally Fuellhart, Alice Hollabaugh, Gloria Lindall, Florence Nelson, Lois Nelson, Floyd Nelson, Carl Nelson, George Nelson, Bob Hollabaugh, Bruce Clark, Harry Giotz, Andrew Giotz, Carl Giotz, Fred Giotz, Donald and Fred Cross, Glenn Westfall, Alfred Westfall, Kenneth Shaw, Val Jean Shaw, Bob Fuellhart, John Zaner, Dorothy Hollabaugh, Donald Westfall, Edway Westfall, Bob Edwards, Lois Nelson, Henry Lee Hollabaugh, Robert and Carl Barnes, Bill Shavley, Bill Barnes, Gerald Westfall, Marian Westfall, Dorothy Westfall, Evelyn Westfall, Doris and Dorothy Mickelson (twins) Avon and June Reynolds, the Rounds family, the Matie family, the Shecker family, and many others.

My outstanding memory is that many of these pupils were my students from grade one through grade eight, — a truly rewarding experience.

My congratulations to the present teacher, Mrs. Marshall, and best wishes to all the fine people I knew.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Cecelia P. Kapp

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

At The Tour's End

The end of a tour that took the travelling journalists to Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, Atlanta, and Washington. They gathered around Whitney Young to exchange impressions, enroute to a debriefing with Patrick Moynihan (who in the service of Richard Nixon, reminds us that we must always allow for late vocations), and other important officials. As in any human situation, the conclusions drawn by the participants differed.

My own, drastically truncated: 1) Leaders of the Negro community must learn to say No to their own. Not a single black organization disavowed the strike or the tactics of the Black Students Union of San Francisco State. Roy Wilkins and Bayard Rustin have shown a monumental courage by denouncing the firebrands — they must be encouraged in their temperance. Too many black leaders now feel towards any other black leader the way the Communists felt towards Stalin; his will was theirs. White "understanding" of this phenomenon is a form of condescension: it might even be called racist.

2) There is universal distrust of the police. One grants — must grant — exaggeration; even so, there is an ugly residue. "You see over there," a black guide in Forest Park in Chicago pointed to a policeman walking away from a ghetto grocery shop laden down with a shopping bag. "It's this simple. The cops don't raid the store, which is also a bookie joint, and they get free groceries." A good freemarket arrangement, except that the police are supposed to defend the law.

In San Francisco, a black man of all trades is stopped by a policeman who visibly reacts to his bizarre costume — turtle neck, beads, beard, the works. "Let me see your license," He hands it over. The policeman pockets it. "I said let me see your license," "I just gave it to you." He is arrested for driving without a license. Paul Goodman has said that it is wrong to have policemen who are agents of an alien value system; that the laws of the ghetto ought to be made by the ghetto and enforced by the ghetto. The impracticality of Goodman's insight oughtn't to distract from its acuity. Major, deep reforms are necessary.

3. The nature of "democratic participation" needs to be refined. It has become a slogan, and every man is permitted, indeed encouraged, to "do his thing," a term which after hearing it one thousand times, begins to cloy. G. K. Chesterton wrote a half century ago that men should be free to be their own petty little selves. But doing one's thing is too often regarded in the ghetto as the freedom to express oneself at the very direct expense of others.

We did not meet anyone who went so far as to say, for example, that Sirhan Sirhan was merely doing his thing, but the idea of authority, the idea of self-denial, is evanescent in the culture of the ghetto. Another job for black leaders, to restore the prestige of authority, whether defined as political authority, or the authority of standards.

4. What is the nature of racism? I do believe that the man was never born who is not a racist under one of the definitions so freely used in the ghetto. A favorite maxim is that "capitalism is racist." Once again, unintentionally imbedded in that phrase, is a form of racism: the notion that black entrepreneurs cannot produce a successful mousetrap. Why can't they? The answer is that of course they can, and the ancillary superstition that it is exploitative of the people to produce a mousetrap cheaper than the one which people are currently buying is one of those delusions of socialism on which people have wasted their energy and spirit for years.

5) The quality and the energy — and the charm — of the black leaders in all of these cities is a major marvel: a quite extraordinary cultural and ethnic achievement. Anyone expecting to hear better speech, better organized ideas, greater enthusiasm, in the graduate schools of the Ivy League, has a pleasant surprise coming to him.

SCIENCE SKETCH

REFLECTIONS

By Betty Rice

While there is little doubt that Warren is in need of low cost housing, a recent tour of various neighborhoods by Times-Mirror and Observer Photographer Mel Mansfield provided visible proof the area is rich in lovely homes--of all types -- and beautifully kept up. Some are modest -- some are stately -- but each in its own particular way is picturesque. We plan, from time to time, to present pictures such as these above. The top home, located in the Redwood street area, is crisp and compact and is enhanced by its special brand of landscaping. The lower photo was caught in the building development near Quaker Hill Road and the rustic bridge bespeaks warm hospitality.

Women's News Service reports from St. Vincent, France -- One month ago Simone Bernard, 45, missed a curve and drove her car into the main dining room of a restaurant. Repairs were almost completed this week when the owner heard another crash in the dining room. "It's me again," apologized Mrs. Bernard, who missed the curve for the second time.

Heard an excellent suggestion at Friday's stirring raising of the historic Three Flags... a permanent installation of bleachers and Sunday band concerts on the site. We passed the idea on to Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau. Could provide an excellent entertainment for many local folks as well as being a tourist attraction.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You've said a good word for waiters, maids, bellboys, police officers, airline pilots and garage mechanics. Now will you give a hand to the most abused men in America -- the meter readers.

My son Elmer has been a meter reader for two years. He has been harassed, cussed out, kicked, bitten and mugged. A few weeks ago a husband came home unexpectedly, saw Elmer in the basement and mistook him for his wife's lover. Elmer was lucky to get out with his life.

People put all sorts of things over their meters so the reader can't get to them -- heavy trash cans, garden implements and lawn furniture. They park their cars on top of the meter and refuse to move them. The reader has to estimate the amount of the bill where he can't get a reading. The people complain their heads off when the bills come and then they write dirty letters to the management saying the meter-reader is off his nut.

Please say something in your column to give these poor guys a lift. They sure deserve it. -- A Richmond Mom

DEAR MOM: I did my bit for meter readers a few years back when I printed a letter from a housewife who liked to do her housework in the nude. It seems she was in the basement doing her laundry and decided to take off her house dress and throw it in the washing machine. The woman suddenly noticed the pipes overhead were dripping, so she put on her son's football helmet which was lying in the corner. There she stood, naked as the day she was born, when she heard a small cough. The woman turned around and stared straight into the face of the meter reader. He looked completely bewildered and all he could say was, "I hope your team wins, Lady."

After that letter appeared in the column I had dozens of letters from mothers who said their sons had decided on a career. They wanted to be meter readers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the letter from the man whose wife died. He pointed out that many widowers are left helpless -- they don't know how to boil an egg or sew on a button. He said, "Wives would be doing their husbands a big favor if they stopped waiting on them hand and foot and taught them how to do things for themselves."

It is my opinion that the teaching should be done by mothers, not wives. My mother saw to it that all of us kids washed dishes, cooked, cleaned house and ironed our own clothes -- the boys as well as the girls. I hated it at the time and so did my brother, but when we went to college we were thankful.

Shortly after I married, my wife had an emergency call to fly to the Coast. She left knowing I'd manage O.K. And I did. I cooked for myself and even did my own shirts.

So tell the moms out there that their sons may yell a lot when they are forced to do household chores, but in time they will rise and call her blessed...One Who Did

DEAR DID: Thanks for the assist. And now, Mom, don't hand this column to your teen-age son, but put it where he's likely to see it. (Like in the refrigerator.)

Welcome Home Reception Honors Missionaries Back From India

One hundred and fifty friends and relatives of the Rev. and Mrs. Willis Anderson joined in a Welcome Home reception held Tuesday evening, May 27 at Calvary Baptist Church.

After 33 years of missionary service in India under the Mission Board of Church of the Nazarene, the Andersons are now retiring from full-time activity. Willis is a former Warrentite and grew up in the local church, where he is remembered as a fine pianist. Both graduated from Eastern Nazarene College and pastored briefly in the Pittsburgh District of Nazarene Church before their appointment to India and during the war years. They have retained membership in the Warren church.

During their last term in Basim, 450 miles east of Bombay, Mr. Anderson acted as Field Superintendent of Nazarene Missions in India and Mrs. Anderson taught in a Mission school. During their period they were joined by their only son John, who had been studying in the States, his wife and children. The younger Andersons are continuing the family missionary tradition as teacher and medical technician.

After a period of rest and renewal of acquaintances with former friends and family here, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson may be available for special meetings and missionary conventions.

Forming the receiving line for the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Heald, the former a nephew of Mr. Anderson, the honored guests and the Rev. and Mrs. John M. Gardner, pastors of the local congregation.

The program for the evening was planned and produced by the Misses Joyce McFarland and Verta Iitel. Mrs. Robert Still fashioned a centerpiece for the tea table emphasizing the missionary theme. Miss Elaine Heald and Mrs. Stanley Albaugh, nieces of the Andersons, poured.

Fashion became the greatest enemy of birds of paradise. In the 1890s plumes sold for as much as $50 each in the millinery marts of Paris and Amsterdam.

If the Shoe Fits...

James R. Valone

Footsaving Education

Do women have more foot ailments than men?

Yes, more women suffer from bunions, corns, weak arches and pronation. Men can suffer the same ailments, however, men's foot health is generally better than for women. Why? Because men usually wear more healthful shoes -- an oxford with a basic 1/2" heel. Women, by comparison, wear shoes varying from a dress shoe with 3 inch high heel to a flat ballerina with a 1/8" heel. This throws greatly varying strains on the weight bearing part of the foot.

As fashion dictates a more moderate heel height for women's shoes, foot disorders among women can be expected to lessen. Any woman with foot trouble is wise to compromise fashion with comfort in her choice of footwear. After all, the sprightly step that reflects foot health is more attractive to the male than is the plodding step of the foot-weary.

PLAY THE SLIMMING GAME

By Mary Sue Miller

(The second of five special columns: "How To Trim For The Swim.")

An extra inch seems like ten when you wear a swimsuit. Especially this summer's little nothings!

You really must cut a trim figure to join the ranks of the bathing beauty. Overweight calls for a combination of diet and exercise. You have to take the double dose if you've got the double trouble. When your weight is near-normal, spot exercise is all that's needed to pare the heavy spots. The process is not as dull as you may think. I'll show you how to make a game of it.

Pick Up Sticks. Scatter 20 matchsticks on floor in semi-circle, about one inch apart. Pick up sticks by squatting in profile to them — turn left, reach with left hand and rise, repeat to right and, alternating sides, continue until you've retrieved all.

Row Your Boat. Sit erect on floor, feet together and pressed to baseboard. Now pretend you row a boat. Grasp oars in either hand, bend forward and touch fists to toes. Sweeping oars through water, lean back and touch fists to chest. Continue for three minutes, working for a good pull in abdomen and roll along hipline.

Pillow Fight. Stand erect and hold small, firm pillow between palms of hands at forehead level. So as to set up tension in arm and chest muscles, repeatedly press pillow.

Seventh Inning Stretch. Stretch lazily in all directions like a cat.

From this routine, a head-to-toe workout, comes a taut, fit look. Better get with it.

Heloise

DEAR FOLKS:

Next time you deep fry chicken in oil DON'T throw that grease away . . . don't even bother to pour it back into your receptacle that evening.

Leave the oil in its own fry-container overnight. The "stuff" will settle to the bottom. That is worth its weight. By the next morning, all you have to do THEN is pour the oil into the container in which you save it.

When you get to what I call the "dregs" . . . S-T-O-P!

Let it settle again. It's cold. Remember? Pour the remaining "dregs" (that's the brown stuff left over in the bottom of the pot) into a jar and put in your refrigerator.

This goop is fabulous to make gravy out of, or to use to pour over a roast about 30 minutes before you remove it from the oven.

If you save and keep it in your refrigerator, it sure makes good gravy—water or milk type — when you need some. And just who doesn't need that good, browned goop to make really delicious gravy?

Sure is a nice seasoning to have on hand.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: We have a small reproduction of Rodin's "The Thinker" in our home, and our little son could never understand why this man was sitting on a rock with no clothes on.

Then one morning out of the blue he said, "I know why he is sitting there . . . he is trying to think what he is going to wear today."

Mrs. R. Siegmann

DEAR HELOISE: Here are two excellent hints I used when my children were babies.

When changing a diaper, I put the diaper pins in the holes of an empty powder can. Later I hit on the idea of tacking a small stuffed animal above the bassinet and using it for my pin cushion. It was completely out of baby's reach but he loved to lie there and look up at it. And it was within easy reach for me.

Carole Hummer

DEAR HELOISE: This is for Mothers with cramped dresser space for their children.

Did you know men's wooden trouser hangers will hold a girl's skirt or shorts beautifully? When the matching blouse is buttoned, it will fit over the skirt nicely.

The outfits are together, ready to wear without the usual turmoil of explaining what they've chosen doesn't match.

I find this method very handy for my three little girls.

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of ♠

The West in today's hand was a bit nearsighted and had arranged his holding so that the queen of clubs was in with his spades. When the opponents routinely arrived at a three no trump contract, it appeared rather natural for him to lead the king of spades as if his holding in that suit was headed by the K-Q-10.

South won the first trick with the ace of spades and then crossed over to the dummy in hearts to lead the ten of clubs for a finesse in that suit. When the play came around to West, he was by now aware of his initial error in sorting the cards—and he removed the queen of clubs from his spade holding in order to win the trick.

West was a bit disappointed in the unexpected deterioration of his spade suit, but seeing no attractive shift in the offering, he continued the original attack by returning the four of spades. South, of course, had marked his opponent with the queen of spades from the original lead of the king. He, therefore, put up North's jack with the expectation of winning the trick. His shock was considerable when East produced the spade queen and the defenders ran sufficient tricks in the suit to set the contract.

As it turns out, three no trump can always be defeated—provided that West makes an early shift to the ten of spades instead of leading fourth best, for this unorthodox play saves East from having to sacrifice the queen of spades and thereby establishing North's jack as a second stopper in the suit for the declarer. However, this is a difficult position for West to diagnose without taking "a peek," and South—in the normal course of events—may be expected to fulfill his contract routinely.

Both South and East commented on the brilliant opening lead, but West merely gave a knowing smile. He was reluctant to explain that he hated to use his glasses when he played bridge.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 3, 1969

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—You may be offered some unusual suggestions or propositions. Study well. One you may hesitate to accept because of its uniqueness may have the best potentialities.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Stress your innate warm-heartedness and thoroughness now. Don't rush yourself or others, put aside unreasonable desires, and you can sail through the day in tiptop fashion.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—YOU be the one to pep things up when progress seems slow. This may be your winning point now. Both everyday activities and new, exciting interests stimulated by generous planetary influences.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Do not overtax yourself, and do avoid anxiety. If you are doing your very best, both in job and personal matters, it will prove rewarding enough.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Salute your day with the will to do your best even if all circumstances are not to your liking. You may profit by working with another on an idea he has, but which he may be having difficulty in launching.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Excellent planetary influences. Put forth your finest efforts and returns will come in for some time. Meet everyday challenges with your usual self-confidence.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Emphasize team work and lend a hand to those who could use it. Don't shunt aside small jobs because you think them unimportant. They could lead to BIG opportunities in the future.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—New opportunities indicated -- some not obvious at first. Keep searching. In the meantime, however, do not neglect regular obligations.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Jupiter, highly favorable, indicates that dividends are now rapidly accruing from past wise investments. However, don't offset gains by overspending.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Neither be extravagant in an effort to impress others nor fall for any ostentatiousness displayed for your benefit. Concentrate on what's REAL and dependable.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Read Capricorn. Your advice is similar. There's a prevailing tendency to be attracted to the flamboyant.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Good influences stimulate your skills and capabilities. You should feel enthusiastic about the way things go now.

YOU BORN TODAY are adaptable, grasp ideas and situations smartly, have an attractive manner, a refreshing outlook on life. You are dynamic in pursuit of goals. Such qualities, properly developed, are the forerunners of substantial success and many friendships. You do not care for tedious routine, must push yourself to accept necessary "humdrum." Your desires and projects are many and varied, so concentrate on a primary objective, lest you get lost in a sea of mixed activity. Systematize your keen mind, direct energies into productive channels. Avoid worry, strain. Birthdate of: Jefferson Davis, Pres. U.S., Confederate States (Civil War); King George V of England; Maurice Evans, dramatic actor.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1969 By The Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

MEDICAL BROWSING

There is considerable evidence that many persons involved in single car crashes wanted to commit suicide. Many were depressed and had been drinking. Taking one's own life in this way is a face-saving maneuver because death is blamed on an accident. The insurance company may even pay on the double indemnity clause. Whenever we write on this subject, we get a rash of letters from people who survived a single car accident and want it known that they were not attempting to kill themselves. A Nebraska woman swerved her car into a power pole. "I did the unbelievable. I dropped my glove and while reaching down to get it, took my eye off the road. My body inclined to the right and the left hand was pulled to the right turning the steering wheel." This is understandable and a point worth mentioning. A Chicagoan also wanted me to know that mechanical malfunction is often missed by the police and insurance investigators.

Finger-sucking is universal among infants, but when teenagers engage in the habit, it makes news. Of 8,158 Stockholm children (12-year-olds) questioned, 2,508 admitted to the habit in childhood. One hundred fifty-one still sucked their fingers. Thirty-six were treated successfully via conversation, relaxation, or hypnosis. Two years later, in 1964, 116 were re-examined. The majority were girls and studies showed that 38.8 per cent were still sucking the fingers.

Finger-sucking after age 6 may cause permanent damage to the teeth. Baby talk due to difficulty in articulation may coexist. By age 14, we can assume the fingersucker needs considerable readjustments in personality.

We enjoy reading comments from the past that are applicable today. One famous writer said: "Our youth now love luxury. They have bad manners, contempt for authority, disrespect for older people. Children nowadays are tyrants. . . they contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble their food, and tyrannize their teachers." The author was Socrates, who lived in the 5th century, B.C.

TOMORROW: Trichinosis.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

OUTSIDE JOBS

V.B. writes: When my husband works outside, he eats, sleeps, and looks well. But after a few weeks on an inside job he loses his vitality, dark circles form under his eyes, and his skin becomes pale. The doctor found nothing wrong with him. Do some people require more fresh air and sunshine than others?

REPLY: Yes, and it's a pity that they can't have jobs that keep them out of doors most of the time. Why doesn't he take the initiative and find an outside job?

SWEETS AND ARTHRITIS
C.C. writes: Does eating candy, cookies, and cakes aggravate arthritis?

REPLY: Foods have no effect on the ordinary types of arthritis, except when the jaw is involved and it hurts to chew.

SUNSET LOOP

There is a difference in one end of the Hot Stove League program this year—a very gratifying difference. And it lies in the formation of the Sunset League, pitting eight teams from both the borough operation and the county league against each other in an atmosphere designed to foster competitive baseball.

The program, open to boys from the Intermediate League level to age 18, frees the players from the "everybody must play" and "so many innings per pitcher" restrictions that, while serving somewhat useful purpose at lower league levels, do stifle the talents and competitive drive of young men no longer boys, playing the game to win.

"It's a shame," noted an official at a winter meeting of the Hot Stove League. "We take these boys from the time they can barely swing a bat and just when they are developing into fine ballplayers we lose them to golf, or softball, or sometimes no sport at all. They just get tired of playing."

The boys do—and some of the reasons are: Hot Stove League becomes equated with "kid stuff" in the teen-age mental vocabulary; the embarrassing idiocy of some parents, forcing their still very young boys to play a game for blood that is only enjoyable in that age bracket as a fun sport, and the discovery of that ancient charmer that has led young men astray for centuries—girls.

But in this Sunset framework, with games played on weekend afternoons and one night a week, there is no "kid stuff" in the rules, which are as close to major league as possible. And the parents' exhortations now blend in with those of baseball fans in general, so the young player can ignore them if they are annoying, or turn around and tell Mom and Pop to "cool it" if they get embarrassing. And the girls—well there's something about a uniform that does wonder for a girl's opinion of a guy, so long as it's the "in" thing and playing in this loop is rapidly becoming that.

The teams are C&M Market, American Legion, Sheffield, Courier and Abplanalp, Cole's Motel, Hooktown, West Side and South Side; and the co-chairmen who have worked their heads off setting up the program are Don Quiggle and Dick Sharp in Warren and Jack Holcomb in Grand Valley. They wanted—and got—a program that retains a Hot Stove affiliation, but does not stifle the teen-aged high schooler's will to win.

DE-EMPHASIS?

Now, this seems to be a step in the right direction; and, telephone calls from screaming mothers to the contrary, I'd like to pass on another solid-sounding idea. Sports Illustrated mentioned it three weeks ago, and the idea is to de-emphasize the lowest two league levels. If the adults would set up the fields, secure the equipment—and just let the kids go to the ballfields and play their own game, without the trappings of umpires, coaches, managers and obnoxious parents peering over their shoulders, perhaps the sport would be better-regarded by the youngsters.

This is not intended in any way as a "knock" at the existing program; the parents of the boys playing evidently push for a full-blown program and the Hot Stove League is doing an admirable job of providing it. But the suggestion is worth mulling over, in terms of what we want for our summer baseball program. Do we want a highly-publicized, competitive, pressure-filled game slate to feed parental and managerial egos—or do we want our kids to play baseball for the fun of it and start them on the competitive kick at about the Cadet level?

Drop me a note if you have an opinion; I'm betting the results of a survey would be ve-e-e-ry en-ter-est-ing.

And anyhow, here is the Sunset League's schedule for the summer:

'Make Speeches, Sell Hamburg:' Ex-Boxer Ali's Plan For Future

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay says his boxing days are over and he plans to make speeches and sell hamburgers.

He said Monday, however, he had turned down a singing contract.

"I'll never return to fighting," Clay said at the Federal Court-house where he and his lawyers appeared for a wiretap hearing before Federal Judge Joe Ingraham.

This was in sharp contrast with statements made in March about making a comeback in the ring. These remarks prompted a reprimand from Elijah Muhammad, head of the Black Muslim sect.

The former heavyweight champion was reluctant to talk about the court case and boxing, but was eager to get in a plug about a proposed restaurant chain in which he says he owns half.

He said he expects about 50 of the eating places to be in operation around the country by the end of summer. He said they will be established in poor areas. He declined to say who owned the other half of the franchises.

Clay appeared pudgy. He said he weighed 230 pounds which is about 20 pounds over his usual fighting weight.

"I had this suit cut to hide it," he grinned.

He listened closely to arguments by his lawyers and prosecutors but had no comment.

"I have nothing to say about the court case," he said.

He said he was making speeches at colleges and schools "who have invited me."

"I am trying to cool down some of the militants," he said. "You can't force integration."

Reporters kept steering the talk around to boxing but made little headway.

"I don't keep up with fighters any more," he said.

"What about the Joe Frazier-Jerry Quarry fight this month?" someone persisted.

"I just don't pay any attention to them any more," Clay replied. He was asked if he was offered a contract recently to make some singing recordings.

He said he turned it down.

"I have turned down all contracts," he said.

He said he still prefers the name Muhammad Ali. This is the Black Muslim minister name he went by when he was convicted in 1967 on charges of refusing to be inducted into the armed services.

The hearing that began Monday was to determine if that conviction was brought about in any way by government wire tapping.

A small knot of wellwishers gathered around Clay as he started to leave the Federal Building. His lawyer finally pulled him away and into a waiting taxi.

"Are you still the greatest?" someone asked.

Clay smiled but didn't answer. He apparently wanted to talk about hamburgers.

Carlos May Shines

BOSTON (AP) — Rookie Carlos May capped a six-run eighth inning with his first major league grand slam homer Monday night, lifting the Chicago White Sox to a 6-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The White Sox, held to two singles for seven innings, broke loose against rookie Mike Nagy and relievers Vicente Romo and Sparky Lyle.

The White Sox scored once on Tom McGraw's pinch single and had the bases loaded with two out when Romo took over for Nagy.

Luis Aparicio beat out a hit off Romo's glove. With the left-handed May striding to the plate, Lyle, a southpaw, came in.

Lyle fired a strike past May. Then the 20-year-old Chicago slugger hoisted a long shot into the stands in right for his 11th homer.

The Red Sox appeared en route to an easy victory on the slugging of Carl Yastrzemski and Rico Petrocelli.

Yastrzemski lined a 410-foot shot into the Boston bullpen for his 12th homer after Dalton Jones singled in the first inning. Jones doubled to right and scored on Yastrzemski's two-bagger high off the center field wall in the third. Then Petrocelli ripped a towering shot down the left field line for his 16th homer in the sixth and a 4-0 lead.

Senators Keep Hitting
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bernie Allen stroked a bases-loaded triple and Frank Howard lashed three hits and scored four times, leading the Washington Senators to a 7-6 victory over Kansas City Monday night.

Allen's blow with two out in the third inning lifted the Senators from a 4-2 deficit into a 5-4 lead, and extended the Royals' longest losing streak of the season to six games.

Harmon Hits A Blast

ST. PAUL — MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Harmon Killebrew's towering three-run homer sparked the Minnesota Twins to a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees Monday night.

Killebrew, moving into the No. 13 position ahead of Duke Snider on the all-time homer list with his 40th career blast, slammed a Stan Bahnsen pitch 385 feet into the left field stands and brought the Twins from a 2-0 deficit in the fifth inning.

New York took a 2-0 lead in the third inning when Bobby Cox belted his first home run after Horace Clarke singled.

Lindstrom Cops Gals' Golf Play

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — Murle Lindstrom withstood a last-round bid by Shirley Englehorn and won the $15,000 O'Sullivan Open Golf Tournament by three strokes Monday, with a closing par 71 and a 54-hole total of 208.

It was the first victory for Mrs. Lindstrom on the Ladies PGA tour since 1967. She led the tournament all the way, entering the final 18 holes with a one-stroke advantage after rounds of 66-71.

Miss Englehorn, trailing four strokes after 36 holes, posted Monday's only subpar round, a 70, and finished at 211, but no others in the field made any sort of a charge at the Winchester Golf Club course.

City League Meets

The City Softball League will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Sons of Italy Club. Team representatives and all interested players are invited to attend.

It's Sit and Wait For Mets' Catcher

NEW YORK (AP) — Duffy Dyer sits and waits, which isn't so bad, except for where he sits.

"I stay in the bullpen for every game," said Dyer, a rookie catcher with the New York Mets, Monday. "It's tough out there. You can't really see what the other pitcher is throwing."

And what the other pitcher is throwing is important to Dyer because he wants to be ready in case Manager Gil Hodges needs a pinch hitter.

Dyer is a third stringer with the Mets which means Jerry Grote and J.C. Martin handle the catching in the game and he handles the catching in the bullpen.

"I try to stay ready though," said Dyer. "I don't want to miss my chance."

The chances have been infrequent for the 23-year-old from Phoenix Ariz., a product of the Arizona State baseball factory which also has sent Sal Bando, Rick Monday and Reggie Jackson to the majors.

Dyer started one game for the Mets last season and was rained out of his only start this year. He has been to the plate seven times as a major leaguer, has three hits and is 3-for-4 as a pinch hitter this season.

It's hard to generate excitement out of numbers like those but Dyer has his thrill when San Francisco visited Shea Stadium and attracted a crowd of more than 52,000—largest in the National League this season, for the opening game of the past week-end series.

In a three-run eighth inning rally, Dyer's pinch hit, chased the Mets' winning run home.

Rozelle Sees Slim Chance For Quick Grid Alignment

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Monday night there's only a 50-50 chance for a quick solution to the problem of sorting the 13 remaining teams in the National Football League into three divisions that will suit all the owners.

"There's a pretty good chance we'll have a solution Tuesday night," Rozelle told a news conference after a four-hour meeting with club owners. "By a pretty good chance, I mean about 50-50. There was no indication Monday that the owners will suddenly arrive at a decision."

The spring meetings involving officials of both leagues began on Wednesday. Rozelle said that if a decision isn't made by then on realigning what's left of the NFL, "then we'll just have to meet again several weeks from now."

The NFL club owners will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday and continue until the Pro

More Olympics

L A U S A L L E, Switzerland (AP) — The leading international sports federations proposed Monday that skiing be maintained as an Olympic sport and that the Olympic summer and winter games be enlarged rather than reduced.

"The Olympic Winter Games should be maintained in their present form and duration," said the proposal unanimously adopted by the 29 federations at the end of a three-day meeting.

The federation proposals will be presented to the executive board of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) here Tuesday for discussion at the IOC assembly opening in Warsaw June 6.

IOC President Avery Brundage of the United States would like alpine skiing removed from the Olympic program because of what he calls its commercial character. The Warsaw talks on the issue promise to be long and lively.

BEST OF WINNERS

ATTICUS SHINES

Atticus, the proud Borzoi or Russian wolfhound, poses with owner Andy Randas and Judge Nelson Groh at the Western Pennsylvania Kennel Club show at Pittsburgh's Civic Arena. The dog, who zips through 200 yards in 9 seconds flat and has been used by Randas to pace (or chastize) runners in his days as cross-country coach at Warren High, is halfway to a championship rating with eight of the 15 necessary points.

A pair apiece came at the Butler and Trumbull County dog shows in May, where Atticus was Best of Winners. Bred by David L. and Violet K. Ristau of 551 Kinzua road, Warren, whose Ristovia Kennels have produced some of the finest Borzois in the country, the dog has been trained by Randas with the assistance of Bill and Teresa Massa.

Two to Represent County At 4-H Congress at PSU

Two outstanding Warren County 4-H members have been named to serve as leadership council representatives at 4-H Congress, June 16-19, on the Pennsylvania State University Campus.

Council members Barbara Hagberg, Sugar Grove, and David Nordin, Scandia, will join 58 other older Commonwealth youths to supervise program activities of the 1,000-member delegation participating in the 4-H Congress.

Selection of the 60 leadership corps delegates was made from among Pennsylvania's 50,000 4-H members, based on their achievement records," says Assistant State 4-H Leader at Penn State, chairman of the event. "All council representatives previously participated in 4-H Congress programs."

Leadership council members arrive on Penn State campus Saturday, June 14, for two days of counseling and orientation, to prepare them for their duties the remainder of the week.

Other 4-H members from Warren County participating in the 4-H Club Congress include: Pat Sweeney, Sugar Grove; Isaac Borland and Joyce Slocum, Warren; Craig Wilcox and Lona Dyke, Russell; and Mary Kuzma, Columbus.

Among conference speakers are Marilyn Van Derbur, former Miss America; James Perine, head of Upward Bound, member of Penn State College of Human Development faculty; Dr. David MacDonald, psychologist, Penn State Division of Counseling; David Gottlieb, adolescent psychologist, College of Human Development; Dr. William M. Smith, professor of rural sociology in the College of Agriculture; and Mike Reid, defense tackle for the Penn State football team.

The Warren County group will be accompanied by associate county agent, Norman Perschke.

Perschke explains the congress is designed to develop appreciation and understanding of national and international problems, and to the practice of leadership and acceptance of responsibility for independent group actions.

Barbara Hagberg, 17, of R.D. 2, Sugar Grove, has been a 4-H member seven years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hagberg, and a senior at Eisenhower High School.

A member of the Swede Hollow 4-H Club, Barbara has completed projects in fun to bake, outdoor cookery, modern plowing, electric, forestry, entomology, first aid, geology and teen leadership. She served as club president, song leader, secretary and game leader, and the past four years has assisted as a junior leader.

She has participated in Pennsylvania 4-H Congress at Penn State; State 4-H Capital Days in Harrisburg; Camp Kanawake leadership training camp in Huntingdon County; and 4-H Junior Leaders retreat.

David C. Nordin, 16, of R.D. 1, Russell, has been a 4-H member eight years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Nordin, and is a junior at Warren Area High School.

He is a member of the Eastern Warren County 4-H Dairy Club. David Nordin was awarded the Warren County 4-H Dairy Trophy. He has completed 4-H projects in dairy and cooking-over-coals.

He has served his local club as secretary and treasurer, and was president of the Warren County 4-H Council. He assists with dairy club activities as a junior leader.

David has participated in Pennsylvania 4-H Congress at Penn State; State 4-H Capital Days in Harrisburg; and 4-H Junior leaders retreat in Franklin.

Township Water Supply Bill in House

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG—Warren County's 22 second class townships will be authorized to "establish and construct" water supply systems—if a bill introduced in the House of Representatives should gain final approval.

Although the legislation specifies that the water supply system shall be located "as far as practicable" along and within the lines of public roads of the township, the supervisors may require, "where necessary for the public health" that abutting property owners and adjacent property owners whose principal building is within 150 feet of the water system must connect with and use the township system.

And in case any of the abutting or adjoining property owners refuse to connect with the township water system, the supervisors would be authorized to "enter upon such property and construct such connection" to be followed by an itemized bill of the cost of construction to the property owner.

The bill currently is in the House Committee on Local Government.

Wheat Program

Deadline: June 21

Gerald Bensink, office manager, Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, announces that producers participating in the 1969 U.S. Dept. of Agriculture wheat program have until June 21 to certify to actual planted and diverted acres.

Failure to certify on or before that date will mean loss of payment under the wheat program.

Producers under the feed-grain program will have until August 1 to certify acreage planted and diverted. However, Bensink urges that certification be made as early as possible. This, it is explained, allows the ASC field work to begin. Final payments will be released earlier if this is done.

COMMUNITY GREETING SERVICE

MACA Discusses Future Of Blue Jay Camp Site

Members of the Marienville Area Civic Association met with Assemblyman William Allen at their May meeting to discuss the future of the Blue Jay Job Corps site. Allen was told that MACA had mounted a vigorous campaign directed at President Nixon's office to prevent the closing of Blue Jay, but there is no doubt now that it is being phased out, and the community is anxious to learn what plans the Commonwealth might have for using the site.

Allen praised the efforts of MACA in their campaign to save the Job Corps program, and he expressed his regret that the program was not allowed to remain status quo, reminding the members that this was a Federal Administration policy.

He said that the site is of definite interest to the Commonwealth, and it is his opinion that it will be utilized in some capacity similar to its former use. He did not wish to be pressed, he continued, to reveal any plans the Commonwealth might be considering. He asked that the local interest be patient on the basis that some definite action will be taken on the Blue Jay site.

Forest Corey, MACA vice president, then said that he had learned that the Commonwealth is seeking a location for a juvenile detention or correctional institution. Corey indicated that this would mean a multi-million dollar construction program, some 100 jobs, new families for the area, and the construction of homes to house these people.

Corey called for a secret ballot to be taken to determine whether or not any of the MACA members might find this development offensive. There was favorable comment from the floor by persons who had experience with such institutions and who knew that the local citizens reacted favorably to having one located in the community.

Allen said that although he was not promoting such an idea, he would accumulate as much data as possible and would act as liaison between local and state officials should such a proposal develop.

When the ballot was taken, there was but one vote of dis-sension, it was reported, and Corey was asked to further investigate the matter.
